DETAILED ACTION

1. The Preliminary Amendment filed 16 April 2006 is acknowledged and entered.

Election/Restrictions

2. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species I- porous membranes of an organic polymer or material; and

Species II- porous membranes of an inorganic material.

3. Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

4. Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Art Unit: 1634

5. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species I- claims 12-34 and 40; and Species II claims 35-39.

The following claim(s) are generic: 1-11 and 41-50.

6. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the technical feature linking the inventions of Species I and II appears to be a nucleic acid adsorbing porous membrane.

However, Masuda et al (U.S. Patent No. 4,472,498, issued 18 September 1984) disclose a porous filtering membrane (column 14, lines 5-25), wherein the membrane binds to a complex (Abstract) and the complex is a gene (column 17, lines 55-60), which is a nucleic acid. Therefore, the technical feature linking the inventions of Species I and II does not constitute a special technical feature as defined by PCT Rule 13.2 as it does not define a contribution over the prior art.

In addition, Species I is drawn to an organic material, whereas Species II is drawn to an inorganic material. Thus, the two materials are mutually exclusive, and therefore lack a single general inventive concept because of the mutually exclusive nature of the two materials.

The special technical feature of Species I is considered to be porous membranes of an organic polymer or material.

The special technical feature of Species II is considered to be porous membranes of an inorganic material.

Accordingly, Species I and II are not so linked by the same or a corresponding special technical feature so as to form a single general inventive concept.

7. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

8. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
